

GUIDELINES FOR SUBMISSION OF ARTICLES

Writers willing to contribute are requested to follow Diplomatist guidelines and style sheet while writing the article. It will help in organising the content, especially in terms of references and citations.

Points to be noted regarding Diplomatist style sheet:

1. The text should contain original content.
2. Use only UK English (like organisation, standardisation, colour, labour and more).
3. 1 to 10 should be written in words (not when depicting quantity).
4. No special characters to be used.
5. Repetition of idea or content should be avoided.
6. An abbreviation may be opened out once at the outset and thereafter abbreviation may to be used in subsequent text.
7. Avoid over hyphenating.
8. Use a long dash wherever connecting two sentences.
9. Do not copy any material from anywhere, in case you use reference from any article, website, news website, journal, etc; cite their references in the article.

Format to be followed while submitting an article:

1. Headline (Title of the article) 6-8 words
2. Introduction
3. Subheads in the article
4. Endnote (or Conclusion)
5. References in proper format with citations in the text
6. Two blurbs (highlighted text) to be provided (10-15 words each)
7. Graphs, charts should be prepared in MS Office (Word/Excel) and not in jpeg or any other format.

8. The images sent along with the articles should of high-resolution along with its source.

9. Contact details of the author with mobile number, professional photograph and a brief bio.

Keywords:

Authors are requested to provide six to eight words that will serve as keywords for their articles.

Copyright:

The copyright of all the articles belongs to Diplomatist only. We usually post all the published articles in our own print version, on our website and further posts on various online databases under our banner.

Permission for Reproduction:

No published article is to be reproduced in any other journal or website without seeking permission of Diplomatist. Please write for permission at deskeditor@lbassociates.com